	The goal of this course is to develop your ability to develop and manage a design project in a simulation of a real-life studio. This is a studio class in seminar form. The whole class is a Design Studio which is divided into teams with teamleaders who speak English. You can always stop the class, so no student should be left behind the others. Each team is a project group and a profit centre within the Studio working together and making client presentations. Each team defines the individual resources of its members, and divides the work between them to reach goals and deadlines. You will go through 3 whole design projects in one term, from idea to client presentation. With reference to the professor's "BEST Design Principles" design management tool your design will evaluated as a product, a service, and experience		The goal of this course is to develop your ability to develop and manage a design project in a simulation of a real-life studio. This is a studio class in seminar form. 教學內容	and a business proposal within an Idea Development Cycle (RAS/CDP). Your team is a self-regulating group which keeps its own attendance ledger, makes joint project books of design results, and individual books documenting each member's process. Every week except at project presentations, the seminar has the form of an internal studio meeting where you make a progress report, project status, questions from group to studio, studio brainstorm and project plan for next week. Every new studio meeting is run by a new "meeting chairperson" and minutes are kept by a "secretary". Project Presentations are Client Presentations. In these weeks, each production team sells their project to the rest of the class who are assigned the roles of CEO and secretary, plus directors of company departments and their employees. Each presentation ends in team meeting to evaluate the success of the presentation, and in "internal" company dept. meetings to make their recommendation to the CEO who decides "bought or failed". The success of your group becomes your team profit - and your group mark. The profit (P) of each group represents your group mark. Your bonus (B) is you personal mark. During every lesson an activity log is kept of who speaks and participates to decide credits - your bonus. P+B = your grade.	Syllabus and a business proposal within an Idea Development Cycle (RAS/CDP). Your team is a self-regulating group which keeps its own attendance ledger, makes joint project books of design results, and individual books documenting each member's process. Every week except at project presentations, the seminar has the form of an internal studio meeting where you make a progress report, project status, questions from group to studio, studio brainstorm and project plan for next week.
